Leo Seal Jr. named Outstanding Citizen

By EDGAR PEREZ

Second generation Hancock County native Leo W. Seal Jr., president of the Gulf Coast's Hancock Bank, Friday night became the third man to receive the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Most Outstanding Citizen award.

Seal was named 1979 recipient of the honor at the chamber's annual membership banquet at Diamondhead Country Club.

His selection by a chamber committee had been a closely guarded secret for the past several weeks.

The award was presented by outgoing two-term Chamber President Richard Thomas who was also commended by incoming President Wayne Ducomb for his two years of service and leadership.

Previous winners of the outstanding citizen award were businessman and entrepreneur Norton Haas in 1977 and the late George E. Heitzmann in 1978, former Hancock County assessor-tax collector.

Also receiving awards at Friday's event were Richard Kosbab who took the annual membership award for his efforts during the past year in boosting the chamber's membership.

That award was presented by chamber membership chairman and treasurer Mary Perkins who has been re-elected to that post. Thomas will serve as the group's vice president in 1980.

Thomas presented special plaques to Anita Lamb and Perry Gibson for

Borg-Warner exec cites employee role

By EDGAR PEREZ

Engineering studies are proceeding as planned and groundbreaking for a $50 million plastics plant at Port Bienville Industrial Park will take place in June or July of 1980, two Borg-Warner executives said here Friday night.

William F. Patient, operations vice president, and John M. Ranson, plant manager, speaking at a Hancock County Chamber of Commerce banquet at Diamondhead Country Club, said the plant will begin producing plastics in early 1982 with a capacity increase projected for 1983.

The plant is expected to employ some 100 persons, drawn primarily from the Hancock County area, they promised.

"The employees at Borg-Warner are excited about the new plant because it means our business is growing," Patient said.

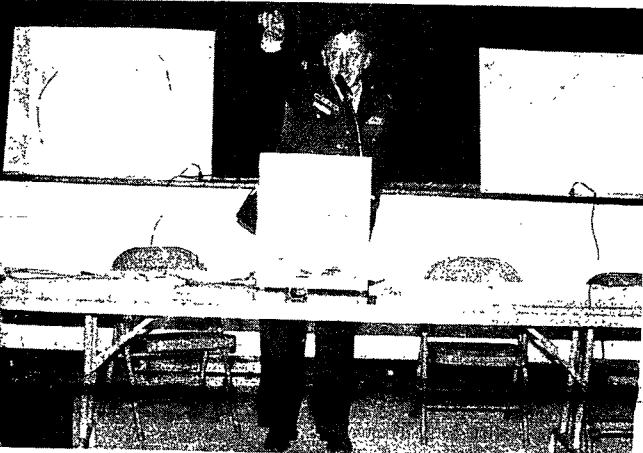

"It means greater over-all job security for everyone, and it means new challenges and opportunities," the West Virginia executive continued.

Borg-Warner announced in July it had chosen the Port Bienville Industrial Park near Pearlinton as site of a new 15-million-pound-per-year

Local officials back Little Lake dredging

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Several area residents attended the Corps of Engineer's Sildell public meeting voicing their support of the proposed maintenance dredging and deepening of the Little Lake channel and entrance channels to Port Bienville Industrial Park, Hancock County.

However, representatives from several Louisiana groups voiced opposition to the Corps' proposal.

Wilson Webre, director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission stated, "The official position of Hancock County following the Sept. 6, 1979 meeting was that we favored the LL No. 2 plan (the Little Lake channel route). Webre added, "The Port Authority

Administrator receives supplement for rent

By RICH ADAMS

The Hancock County School Board Friday night approved a $1,500 salary supplement for the assistant principal at Hancock North Central after deciding it would be illegal to pay his rent for the remainder of the year.

The board said Assistant Principal Leslie Stevenson was supposed to move into a school-owned home presently occupied by the system's vocational-agricultural teacher D.J. Martin, but last month the board decided Martin could remain in the house on school property until his present contract expires on June 30.

The meeting at which Martin was allowed to remain in the home was highly emotional, attended by more

Bay man dies in I-10 crash

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Danny H. Strehle, 27, Route 2, Box 625, Bay St. Louis, was killed on I-10 Saturday morning, according to Highway Patrolman Curtis Newman.

Strehle ran off the highway and hit an unoccupied 1953 Cadillac Hearse parked approximately two miles west of the Rest Area in the East bound lane, according to Newman.

The accident was reported to Newman at 6:10 a.m. by an East bound motorist who stopped to tell him as he was issuing a ticket in the westbound lanes near the Jourdan River.

Strehle was alone in the 1978 Ford Van and no one was in the hearse. Ownership of the hearse was undetermined Saturday morning, Newman said.

The accident is still under investigation, the patrolman reported. Assisting at the scene were Highway Patrolman Hershel Ladner, Hancock County Deputies Willie Harrington, David Garcia and Dennis Tartavouille. Mobile Medic was also at the scene.

Hancock County Coroner Carl Banderet held and inquest and ruled the death an accident.

Strehle's body was taken to Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis. The accident victim's vehicle was towed in by Nancy Pernidaro Wrecker Service and the hearse by Dave's Wrecker Service.

Applications authorized

Supervisors request sand beach renewal

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A funds application for replacement of Hancock County's coastal sand beach has been authorized by the County Board of Supervisors.

County Engineers Broadway and Seal and Gulf Regional Planning Commission were authorized to prepare formal applications for Coastal Energy Impact Program (CEIP) funds Monday afternoon during the supervisor's regular meeting.

Applications will be made for CEIP funds based upon a sand beach protecting the beach front road and for recreational purposes for Hancock County.

The motion for applications was made by Supervisor Bert Courge based upon the recommendation of the County Beach Committee consisting of Don Murray, Larry Bennett and John Longo.

In other business, the supervisors: —Accepted bids from fire department supply outlets for various equipment for the Waveland, East Hancock, Diamondhead and Clermont Harbor Fire Departments at an approximate cost of $7,750;

—Accepted a petition from the Hancock County School Board for a two mill county tax increase;

—Accepted leases of 16 Section Lands recommended by the County School Board.

—Received a $7,588 Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant for the sheriff's department for an emergency generator and two walkie-talkies. Funds were a result of a Hurricane Frederick disaster grant from the State Criminal Justice Planning Commission;

—Received the mobile homes registration list;

—Agreed to hear a Blue Cross insurance representative at the next meeting of the board to discuss a health insurance program for county employees and explain details about the

School suit depositions being taken

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Depositions are being taken by attorneys in a $20,000 damage suit brought against the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board by the North Bay Elementary Parent-Teacher Organization and the Bay St. Louis Local, American Federation of Teachers.

According to the U.S. District Court clerk in Biloxi where the suit will be heard, no depositions have been filed with his office as of Friday.

Waveland Attorney Lucien Gex, counsel to the school board, reported, "A pre-trial conference was held Thursday and we're still in the process of taking depositions." Gex, in declining to comment further on the case, said, "This case is now in litigation and it is not proper to comment at this time."

Biloxi Attorney Gerald Blessey, representing plaintiffs in the suit, had no comments regarding the case.

LSU signs Gene Lang

By RICH ADAMS

Sports Editor

Gene Lang, star Pass Christian running back and Most Valuable Offensive Player in the Pascagoula River Conference, signed a letter of intent Saturday morning with Louisiana State University.

Lang, labeled "the fastest back on the Gulf Coast" by Pirate Head Coach Bob Lumpkin, was one of the state's most sought after football players as he received some seven scholarship offers from major colleges including LSU, Tulane, Mississippi State, and Ole Miss.

The 6'1" speedster signed the letter of intent Saturday shortly after 11 a.m. at the Pass Christian home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Darl Lang.

Lang led the Pirates in rushing this season with 1,257 yards in 158 carries, scoring 78 points.

In his three-year high school career the 165-pound running back netted 3,099 yards and totalled 32 touchdowns.

Lang runs a 440-yard dash in 4.4 seconds and also doubled as a part time defensive secondary specialists this year, intercepting 19 of his opponent's aeriels.

"This is a great day for LSU," said Scooter Purvis, an assistant coach of the LSU Tigers who recruited Lang.

In addition to his athletic abilities, Lang is an honor student at Pass Christian High School, and was last week named to "Who's Who" and "Most Distinguished Students" at that school.

voluntarily come under the Coastal Zone Management Act and have been willing to allow the regulation of structures on suitable sites for water dependent industries at the Port Bienville Industrial Park...that should serve as notice of Hancock County's good intention and commitment toward the orderly development of the industrial park."

Charlotte Freeman, chairwoman of the Woman's League of Voters of Louisiana from Metairie said, "We are deeply concerned about our fragile marshland areas and we support comprehensive long-range management of coastal resources."

"Marshlands support a myriad of shellfish and wildlife...any cost benefit figures should reflect seafood losses," Freeman explained.

Freeman added, "We oppose the piecemeal use of permitting agencies and urge that Little Lake and the Pearl River Basin be protected."

L.K. Kim Moore Jr. said, "I think people are making a big deal out of this. The Little Lake channel was originally dredged for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to bring booster rockets up the Pearl to the Hancock County testing facility."

"This channel has been here for 15 or 20 years...we are taking an existing structure and simply flushing it out," Moore explained.

"The Corps of Engineers' study says the channel would have to be dredged every six years but based on my observation I feel the channel would only have to be dredged every 10 years," Moore stated.

"I support the Little Lake route and I'm willing to donate my land at Port Bienville to place dredging material if necessary," Moore added.

Victor Frankiewicz, consultant to the Bureau of Marine Resources, commented, "BMR supports the Little Lake route. It would be different if this was a new channel."

"We share the concern of those opposed to the dredging and the encroachment by industry upon the environment. However, our agency will reserve areas for development and other areas for the environment. We feel this is the best possible way to promote industrial development and preserve natural resources," Frankiewicz said.

Cliff Danby of the New Orleans Audubon Society stated the group's opposition to the dredging of the Little Lake Channel because "of its impact on spawning and fishing areas" and called for preservation of the wetlands.

In closing Danby said, "I urge the Corps to 'once' make an objective study."

Brant Savoy of the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries said, "We are opposed to the channel through Little Lake and advocate a route through the mouth of the East Pearl River with spoils disposal to upland sites."

"We were told by Port Bienville representatives that most traffic goes East and that currents in the Rigolets give barge traffic problems. Also, the channel through Little Lake has not been authorized by the Corps and the Pearl route is authorized," Savoy stated.

"Our department is not willing to issue a permit for the Little Lake channel because this is not utilizing the best interests of channels in Mississippi. All comments from Louisiana here tonight have been negative and I feel most of the positive comments have come from Mississippi interests," Savoy said.

Wayne Ducomb Jr., president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, supported the Corps of Engineers' Little Lake dredging plan. "We feel the dredging of this channel will generate great economic benefits for Port Bienville industries and Hancock County citizens employed there, as well as citizens from St. Tammany Parish, the Greater New Orleans Area and surrounding Mississippi coast counties who work in the industrial park," Ducomb stated.

Norton Haas Sr., member of the Pearl River Basin Development District, also voiced his support of the Little Lake channel and cited the U.S. Army ammunition plant (now under construction at NSTL) as another possible user of the channel.

Cyrus Rhode, representing the Sierra Club from Long Beach, said, "We are opposed to the Little Lake dredging but we also recognize the needs of industry and feel that the Little Lake route would be the least damaging to area environment."

"Everything considered, we recommend that all dredging be conducted during the months November through January and that the East Pearl River Channel be de-authorized," Rhode added.

The present plan under study which has tentatively been selected calls for dredging a 12 by 120-foot channel from the waterway to the industrial park utilizing an old NASA channel from Lake Borgne through Little Lake up the East Pearl River to the Mulatto Bayou Cutoff and into Port Bienville.

The Corps said this plan is the "most economically efficient and environmentally acceptable plan to meet navigational needs on the waterway."

The plan would result in approximately 496,000 cubic yards of initial dredging and an equivalent annual dredging of approximately 30,500 cubic yards of maintenance material, according to Lt. Col. Alfred H. McDonald, district engineer to the Mobile office of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

"All material excavated from this channel would be contained in upland diked disposal areas (in Port Bienville Industrial Park)," McDonald stated.

McDonald said the Department of the Army will conduct an environmental monitoring program before, during and after construction of the channel through Little Lake to establish baseline conditions and measure actual impacts of the work.

outstanding service to the chamber during the past year.

In announcing the outstanding citizen award winner, Thomas said:

"This award is given to the person we feel has contributed a great deal of his time and effort to furthering the growth of Hancock County—and in this case, the growth and development of the entire Gulf Coast."

"He was selected Gulfport's 'Most Outstanding Young Man' in 1957 for his work in converting the port from city to state ownership; listed in the 1965 Outstanding Young Men of America; received the 1975 Distinguished American Award from the Mississippi Gulf Coast chapter of the National Football Foundation; listed in Personalities of The South; listed in Who's Who in Mississippi; past recipient of the Boss of The Year award; named honorary alumnus of St. Stanislaus; vice commodore and 12 years a director of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club and past treasurer and board member, Bay St. Louis Little Theater," Thomas continued.

In addition, Thomas noted Seal is currently serving as a director and executive and financial committees member of Development Foundation, Patrons of Excellence; as state chairman of the 1979 Cancer Crusade; member of Governor's Men of Mississippi; Hancock County Midas committee; board of trustees, Piney Woods Country Life School; honorary member, Gulfport Rotary Club; and secretary, Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee.

"The list of his accomplishments is too long for me to read them all here tonight," Thomas concluded. Seal is a graduate of Bay St. Louis High School, Mississippi State University, Harvard Graduate School, and the Senior Bank Officers School. He is married to the former Susie Pringle and the father of twin sons. The family resides on North Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis.

MIRACLE AT SQUARE TOP MOUNTAIN by Robert

Franklin Leslie. Leslie, the author of THE BEARS AND I, tells the story of his involvement, through an old Indian shaman, with a colony of pikas, confident, anxious, beguiling little animals that live high in the Rockies. An adventure in solitude told with a rare blend of the mystical and the intellectual.

MISSISSIPPI: A HISTORY by John Ray Skates. To many Americans, Mississippi means Natchez and Vicksburg, white columns and cotton. For the people who have lived there, however, Mississippi has been a decidedly different place. Depending on who you were, and where and when you lived, Mississippi could be a much worse or a far better place than that portrayed by its romantic image. What life has really been like for most Mississippians is the story told in this intriguing history.

SOLAR SYSTEM by Peter and Ludek Pesek. SOLAR SYSTEM is a unique account of our cosmic inheritance as well as a stunning geography of the future. With remarkable precision and immediacy, it details and dramatizes worlds that were once little more than gleams in the night. It is certain to excite the adventurer and scientist in all its readers.

TO SET THE RECORD STRAIGHT: THE BREAK-IN, THE TAPES, THE CONSPIRATORS, AND THE PARDONS by Judge John J. Sirica. It is rare that a judge writes the full story of the trials and legal battles in which he participates, but Judge Sirica here gives his own version, a version never before told, of his role in the incredible Watergate case. THE FLYING WHITE HOUSE: THE STORY OF AIR FORCE ONE by J.F. terHorst and Col. Ralph Albertazzi. Filled with anecdotes and inside information never before published, THE FLYING WHITE HOUSE takes us from the practical jokes on Truman's INDEPENDENCE, to the top-secret shuttle diplomacy of Henry Kissinger. There are tragic flights historic flights, dangerous flights, and unexpectedly funny flights. This is the full story of our Presidents in the air and the events-both important and frivolous-that surrounded them. Enjoyable as it is informative, THE FLYING WHITE HOUSE is one of the most entertaining books ever written about the Presidency.

THE WOTAN WARHEAD by James Follett. A gripping novel of World War II, and the capture of a German U-boat by a British patrol plane, with the ensuing struggle by the Nazis to recapture or destroy it before the British can examine the new Nazi super weapon, a magnetic torpedo armed with a warhead that can seek out and sink a ship by itself.

THE TRAIL OF THE APACHE KID by Lewis B. Patten. The story of professional Indian scout Frank Healy's battle to rescue his wife from a vicious killer that Frank had captured a few years earlier-a killer known as the Apache Kid.

THE KOBERG LINK by Arthur Maling. A novel of suspense linking the world of High Finance with the world of Organized Crime becomes very exciting in Maling's knowledgeable hands.

TRIGGER POINTS by Martin Mayer. A sniper is at work in the Northeast corridor of the United States and the FBI is called in. An exciting and sophisticated story.

TO CATCH A KING by Harry Patterson (author of THE EAGLE HAS LANDED as Jack Higgins and THE VALHALLA EXCHANGE). In this, Hitler decides to kidnap the Duke and Duchess of Windsor and "force" them to rule England under Nazi rule. Naturally, the British Secret Service does not think much of this idea.

Radiation exposure victims urged to report condition

The U.S. Department of Defense has for more than a year been trying to identify former military and civilian defense personnel who participated in atmospheric nuclear tests conducted from 1945 to 1962, according to Mike Ladner, Hancock County veterans service officer.

The Defense Nuclear Agency is the executive agent for this program, Ladner noted.

"If you participated in these tests, which were held largely in Nevada and at Bikini and Eniwetok atolls in the Pacific, you are urged to contact the Defense Nuclear Agency if you have not already done so," Ladner stated.

The Agency is attempting to reconstruct a complete history of the atmospheric nuclear test program, including names of participants and any radiation doses they received.

"One of the purposes of this effort is to enable the National Academy of Sciences and other scientific organizations to determine if there are health hazards resulting from participants in the tests," the official continued. Based upon research to date, indications are that exposures were low. While medical science has no proof that exposure to radiation levels as low as these is hazardous to health, it is generally assumed by scientists that even low levels can carry some slight risks. There is, however, some disagreement within the scientific community about the magnitude of this risk.

"If you were a participant in the atmospheric nuclear tests program, and you have not already done so, address your letter to Defense Nuclear Agency, Washington, D.C. 20305.

"If you are concerned that your possible exposure may have adversely affected your health, you are urged either to consult your private doctor, or, if you are a veteran, contact the nearest Veterans Administration medical center, where you can obtain physical examination at government expense," Ladner said.

Wildlife Federation sets grant deadlines

The National Wildlife Federation has set a deadline of December 31, 1979, for applications from graduate students for its 1980-81 Environmental Conservation Fellowships.

To be eligible applicants must be citizens of the United States, Canada, or Mexico who are pursuing degrees in a college or university graduate program or law school. They must be principally engaged in research, rather than course work, in field related to wildlife, resources management, or the protection of environmental quality. The grants range up to $4,000.

In addition to the NWF fellowships, which have been awarded for the past 22 years, the Federation has since 1971 also awarded joint fellowships with the American Petroleum Institute for studies involving petroleum and the conservation of resources. The deadline for the NWF-API fellowship is also December 31.

For information, including a list of priority topics, and an application form, write the Executive Vice President, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

COUSTEAU ON THE NILE In a two-part documentary, Captain Jacques Cousteau examines the impact of man's intrusions upon life along the Nile River. "The Cousteau Odyssey-The Nile, Parts 1 and 2" can be seen at 8 p.m., Sunday and Monday, December 9 and 10, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Today, man's efforts to harness the waterway to serve growing needs are having a profound impact. In two hour-long programs, the Cousteau expedition follows the river from its source at Lake Victoria to its confluence with the Mediterranean Sea. Production of "The Nile" was completed shortly before the death of Captain Cousteau's son, Philippe, who played a principal role with his father in this television project.

Food stamps increased for some Effective Jan. 1, certain households will be entitled to increased food stamp benefits because of a new law which allows deductions for medical expenses in excess of $35, and provides a new calculation method in determining shelter deductions.

According to Wallace Bradley, Hancock Welfare director, the only households potentially eligible for the new deductions are those with at least one household member who is 60 or older, a recipient of SSI, or a recipient of disability social security benefits.

If these household members have medical expenses in excess of $35 or the household has high shelter costs, the local welfare or food stamp office will, upon request, recompute benefits in order to determine eligibility for increased food stamp benefits, he explained.

The Dixie Press, 1417 24th Avenue, Gulfport, has throughout the years turned out many volumes that are fine examples of professional book making.

Clayton Rand, who prior to his death owned and edited The Dixie Press, achieved nationwide distinction as an after dinner speaker.

He was a patriot, a student of history and a graduate of Harvard Law School.

For we who live and love our Southland, Clayton Rand has left a heritage.

His book SONS OF THE SOUTH gives portraits and short biographies of one hundred men deserving of recognition.

This particular book required techniques not available at the Dixie Press and it was entrusted to Holt, Rinehart and Winston of Madison Avenue in New York. The copyright date is 1961.

Our own Dalton Shourds, now Mrs. Dalton Shourds King of 137 Markham Drive in Mississippi City was commissioned to illustrate with full page portraits of several of the South's prominent sons, including George Washington, Patrick Henry, John Randolph, James Monroe, George Mason, John Marshall, the unforgettable Leonard Calvert, and others.

Dalton's works are signed with a modest "DS" and the strength of her work is sublimated in the likeness of Cordell Hull.

The Mississippi Section of our City-County Library has this extraordinary volume on its shelves. Borrow it - Enjoy it.

Gulf Coast cuisine at its best is incorporated in a full-color high-quality volume of native recipes representative of the Mississippi Gulf Coast in the Gulf Gourmet, a compilation of savories by the Westminster Mothers' Club of Westminster Academy in Gulfport.

Unlike many groups who publish cookbooks around the calendar, Westminster mothers tested and approved each of the more than 500 recipes selected for publication. "These results are no accident," says Editor Mrs. Kent Lovelace, Jr. who points out the recipes are those of noted cooks in the area which the Mothers' Club actively sought.

Some of the recognizable well-known recipes include Bread Pudding from Mary Mahoney of the Biloxi restaurant bearing her name; in nearby Ocean Springs, Trilby's famous house dressing for salads; Blaize D'Antoni's Oysters King Harry from Cafe Brulot in New Orleans, and Ralph Clinde's famous flamed snapper from Ralph and Kacco's, also in the Crescent City.

Latest recipes indicate the book is well on its way to being a viable seller in the Coast area, a melting pot of nationalities. Although new to the broader market, locally and with no publicity, the book sold 2,000 copies in nine days!

The first printing was diminished in a few short months and the second printing is just off the presses.

Of special interest within the pages of this well-bound book is a brief history of the founding of this great section of land contained in the Louisiana Purchase. Few realize these cozy, quaint communities and municipalities along the Mississippi Gulf Coast were first settled in 1540.

Historically the area is ripe, and the uncluttered easily read "notes from times past" section of the book provides entertaining folklore and informative reading.

Artistic photography spotlights local points of interest to unify the history and embody the breezy attitude of this sunny coastline. The book's full-color cover with majestic live oaks indigenous to the area gracefully line the water's edge of the twenty-six mile long man-made sand beach to effortlessly capture the beauty and serenity of the nature-loving traveler.

Copies of the Gulf Gourmet can be obtained by writing Westminster Academy, 5003 Lawson Avenue, Gulfport, MS 39501, for $7 plus $1 for postage and handling and 35-cents tax, or check local bookstore.

Locally, Mrs. Lovelace can be contacted at (601) 896-3965; Mrs. William Rainey at 864-7961; Mrs. Victor T. Bazzone at 896-6928 or Mrs. Wroldstad at 864-4966.

Santa is coming to town!

Santa will make his annual pre-Christmas visit to Bay St. Louis this evening at around 4:30 p.m.

He will arrive at the foot of the Bay St. Louis Bridge and take orders from all of the young of our area, even some of the older folks.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and special events chairman Jeannette Monti Purchner should be commended on the fine program they have planned.

Santa will have some elves helping him as always to hand out some candy to the young, we recognize them too.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors, officials of Bay St. Louis and Waveland should also be complimented on their interest in our children.

And most of all, we should not forget Mrs. Peggy Tedford and the Bay High Chorus, who do such a fine job each year singing Christmas songs at the big event.

Let us all show our appreciation for the efforts of so many by giving Santa a big welcome. The more of us who show up, the happier Santa will be!

We hope Santa will bring each of you the gifts of your choice.

The fastest growing economic activity in the United States posted a 400 percent increase during the last decade. This growth rate—the envy of any business executive if it was in the private sector—is the growth of expenditures of a multitude of federal agencies having major regulatory functions.

These 56 agencies, according to the Center for the Study of American Business at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri, grew from a combined budget of $1.2 billion in 1971 to an estimated $6.0 billion for 1980.

The most rapid expansion is in the newer forms of "social regulation" agencies—consumer safety and health, job safety, and environment and energy.

The Center states that consumer safety and health regulatory budgets have increased 300 percent since 1971 and 69 percent from 1976 to 1980. Budgets for regulatory job safety and other working conditions increased nearly 600 percent in the past 10 years and 57 percent in the last five. Government regulatory expenditures in the environment and energy areas have increased nearly 1200 percent in 10 years and a more modest 82 percent from 1976 to 1980.

The Mississippi Economic Council acknowledges that some regulation is needed and that most federal regulatory legislation is well intended but suggests that a thorough evaluation and reorganization of the present system is needed.

No new regulatory measures should be enacted until: —the economic impact of such measure is determined with benefits greater than the costs of compliance—costs borne by the consuming public; —agencies should be reviewed to eliminate overlapping functions which often lead to conflicting requirements on business; —agencies should be required to use only persons knowledgeable of a particular operation to draft regulations or inspect those operations;

—business should be reimbursed for legal and technical expense involved when it prevails in legal proceedings to reverse an unwarranted fine or compliance requirement, and —Congress considers the long-range impact of federal regulatory activity on employment by business in the U.S. which must compete in international markets with virtually nonregulated business operations of other countries.

Hancock County continues Christmas tree tradition

By JOE PILET
Gulfcoast Chapter
Society, DAR

"O Christmas Tree," an old German folk carol is a familiar and favorite part of America's Christmas tradition.

But we owe the Germans a debt of gratitude, not only for the delightful carol but for the Christmas tree itself!

The German custom of the Christmas tree spread gradually to America and other countries. It is said that the Hessians (German soldiers hired by the British to fight in the American Revolution) had the first Christmas trees in America.

In 1825 The Saturday Evening Post, printed in Philadelphia where many German colonists had settled, described trees visible through the windows and decorated with fruit.

President Franklin Pierce in the year 1856 ordered the first Christmas tree in the White House. The tree was trimmed with nuts, fruits, candies, pop corn strings and strings of cranberries.

Ornaments on Christmas trees did not appear until the 1870's and they were imported from the German city of Dresden.

In 1930 glass ornaments were made in the United States and it is said Corning Glass Company in Wellsboro, Penna., turned out ornaments in great quantities.

Pasadena, California can boast the first outdoor tree in America with electric lights. It was displayed in 1909. New York City and Philadelphia installed lighted trees in 1912 and 1913.

But it was not until 1923 when Calvin Coolidge was president that the first outdoor tree was used at the White House.

It was sent from Vermont, Coolidge's home state and every year thereafter until 1973 a tree was brought to Washington from a different state in the Union.

In 1973 the first living tree at the White House was planted.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1954 invited delegates from 27 foreign embassies to participate in a "Pageant of Peace" featuring the lighting of the White House tree.

Health and Safety Tip

Nonsmoker rights cited by physicians

NONSMOKERS SUFFER ILL EFFECTS OF TOBACCO

The serious and dangerous health results of smoking have been thoroughly aired to the American public for many years. Tobacco smoking shortens life. It is a major cause of lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema and chronic bronchitis. It is associated with other cancers, with increased risk of stroke and other circulatory diseases.

Many Americans have got the message and have quit smoking. American doctors, who see the dire effects of smoking in their patients, have led the field in stopping smoking, and only a small minority of physicians now use tobacco. The Mississippi Medical Association reminds that nonsmokers are vulnerable to the effects of smoking, too. A nonsmoker in the company of a smoker breathes in smoke from the burning end of the cigarette as well as the exhaled smoke. Some people have allergic responses to tobacco smoke and may suffer smoke-caused asthma attacks.

Nonsmokers find that tobacco smoke causes eyes irritation, nasal symptoms, headache and coughing.

Inhaling second-hand smoke increases the heart rate, blood pressure and level of carbon monoxide in the blood. This is particularly dangerous for those with heart and respiratory conditions.

The smoker shows that he or she is damaging his or her health. Smokers may claim a right to pursue their habits, but nonsmokers have at least as much right to clean air, especially in confined places.

If smoking is a personal right, it carries with it the responsibility of respecting the rights of the nonsmoker too.

Congressman

THAD COCHRAN'S Washington Report

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss) has introduced legislation to expand forestry incentive program coverage for timberland damaged by natural disasters.

Senator Cochran pointed out that Hurricane Frederic, which struck three Gulf Coast states last month, damaged nearly two million acres of timber in Mississippi.

"Forestry experts in the state inform us that 325,000 acres were so severely damaged they will require reseedling," Senator Cochran stated.

Senator Cochran, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee which will consider his legislation, said he was seeking co-sponsors from colleagues, particularly Senator from major timber-producing states.

The present forestry incentives program provides assistance through the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service for planting trees on open land, reforestation of cut-over land, and for improvements of existing timber stands.

The Senator's bill provide for cost-sharing assistance up to 75 percent for clearing and reseedling of up to 1,000 acres of damaged timberland for private landowners who own 2,000 acres or less.

Americanism rally lauded as gratifying event

The Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

Last Friday's Americanism Rally was gratifying in many ways:

- It was jointly directed and planned by students from Bay High and St. Stanislaus;

- It received the support and participation of Mayor Bennett, Mayor Longo, State Representative J. P. Compretta, Police Chief Williams, and the clergy;

- It was attended by the very young, teenagers, parents, grandparents - all of whom joined together to offer support, concern, and prayers for the hostages in Iran and their families; - It was initiated by a war veteran and a Legionnaire, C. J. Dumestre, Jr.; - It was my privilege to be present and to participate.

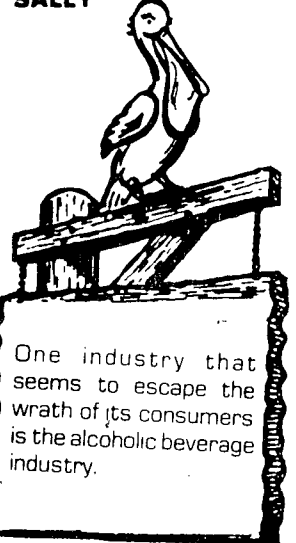

Thank you for the excellent coverage given this positive student-led event.

Sincerely,
Brother Eldon Crifasi, S.C.

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

I've been getting a number of direct mail advertisements lately for clothing. The prices seem to be average or below, but with the cost of postage how can these firms make a profit? Tempted To Bite.

Dear TTB: There's usually only one cure for an urge like yours—but don't be too disappointed if the bite leaves a bad taste.

Most of the firms are legitimate, but their goods are comparable to those you can find in the same general price range in any of your total outlets.

The mail order outlets offer convenience, if you don't mind waiting. And generally you get the right size if you know what to order.

Costs of direct mail promotion (most charge extra for postage and handling) are overcome by the nature of the business—no overhead for display, showrooms, choice location, etc.

But, you are generally limited in selection, and of course if you aren't satisfied with the material, color or fit, you have the hassle of bundling up the goods and coughing up the postage for returning the goods.

On the other hand by checking the newspaper for local stores offering the price goods you want you can see the various colors and materials, check for fit, and even get alterations in many stores.

So, it all amounts to about the same money if you like the goods.

Another aspect of mail order buying is that most purchasers are generally dissatisfied with a higher percentage of the goods they receive, than are the shoppers who patronize local stores.

The above is true of specialty houses who may be the only source of supply in many areas. But prices are usually premium through these sources to say the least.

As in most shopping situations your best bet is your local stores that maintain good inventory and achieve a healthy turnover through regular promotion.

On a closing note, a man I work with who frequently buys through mail order outlets recently visited a local clothing store. "I'd been wondering where everyone was getting their clothes," he said.

"I was used to the (mail order firm) limited lines, I'd forgotten what it's like to having a real selection."

than 35 people, and after some three hours of discussion the board allowed Martin to remain in the house.

Friday night the board, comprised of Board President Woodrow Ladner and Board Members Louie Ladner and Monvel Cuevas, discussed the possibility of paying Stevenson's rent for the remainder of the year.

Louie Ladner said he thought the action would be illegal, and suggested the board pay the assistant principal a $1,500 salary supplement in lieu of supplying the school-owned home rent-free, as provided in Stevenson's contract.

During discussion of the supplement the board also discussed Stevenson's salary, the board members saying Stevenson is not receiving his total salary.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph said Stevenson's total salary was computed, then 30 school days were deducted from the total pay because the assistant principal did not begin work until after the beginning of the year.

Board members took issue with the way his salary was computed, saying Stevenson should receive more money than his $14,640 salary for the year.

The board re-figured his salary on a different basis and decided Stevenson should be receiving $15,759, some $1,119 short of what he is presently receiving.

Monvel Cuevas said the administrator "seemed to be satisfied with what he is getting," and moved that the $1,500 supplement be approved. Louie Ladner seconded the motion and it was unanimously approved.

In other business, the board took under advisement naming of a proposed junior-senior high school to be constructed south of I-10 on US-90. Woodrow Ladner said the school should be named Hancock South Central.

"Hancock South Central is a logical name. We have a Hancock North Central," Ladner said.

"But the north and south names will cause a war, with I-10 as the Mason-Dixon Line," the board president added.

Louie Ladner suggested the board hold off decision on naming the school.

plastics plant. The company's plastics—under the trade name Cyclocac—are used in such consumer products as telephones, kitchen appliances, automobile grills and interior trim parts.

"There is not a car manufactured in Detroit that does not contain Borg-Warner Cyclocac," Ranson said.

In an effort to dispel the belief the plastics industry is contributing to the national energy shortage through its use of oil, he cited statistics to show the petrochemical industry, and Borg-Warner as a small part of the industry as a whole, uses an almost insignificant amount of the petroleum crude consumed in the United States.

"Innovations and service have always been a vital part of Borg-Warner," Patient told some 200 chamber members and guest, adding, "But Borg-Warner Chemicals places a heavier emphasis on a more vital ingredient, its people."

"It's no secret the average worker thinks differently about a job than did his parents or grandparents," Patient stated.

"People in an affluent society—better educated to the possibilities of life, less driven by fear, less awed by authority, and better able to choose where or even whether to work—have grown sharply less tolerant of the way work has been organized and led for generations," the corporate leader continued.

"Borg-Warner has recognized this trend and has taken a number of steps to help employees find job satisfaction and motivation," Patient explained.

"The corporation and its managers are examining how they communicate with and listen to employees," he elaborated.

"Flexible hours are being experimented with at various plants in the U.S., but we still don't have all the answers," he said.

"We are paying serious attention to whether we've been working and organizing work in the best way—an approach stemming from a nagging worry that not all the talent in our company is being used well, that we could be missing out on the potential of many if not most of our employees to be productive creative and involved," Patient stated.

"We believe experiment and change in employer-employee relations will characterize the future management style of Borg-Warner," he continued, adding, "People are the single most important aspect of our business and any business and we've got to give them more of a voice in their working world."

Spiritual Neglect

The major emphasis of education today, for the most part, is on mathematics, science and technology, but not on how to live.

We are taught how to make a living. What we need most is to know how to live. Lots of men good plivings but live poor lives.

In recent years we have made fantastic advances in the fields of technology and science. But we have made very little progress in the area of human relations.

Actually, we may have regressed. In man's conquest for material things we have gradually lost sight of God. We cannot see the trees for the forest.

Our vaunted technological achievements have put a man on the moon. But what has that really meant? Has it secured for us any real blessings? I am afraid not! The truth of the matter is though we have reached the moon we have not learned to live in space together on earth.

The Word of God leaves with us the simple admonition to "be at peace among yourselves" - 1 Thess. 5:13.

As long as men are not at peace among themselves - I am afraid not! As long as men are not at peace with God, they will not be at peace with themselves, nor with one another.

We have invented atomic, hydrogen and cobalt bombs. We have compounded chemicals which can annihilate cities with myriads of people in a matter of hours. We have the capacity to destroy ourselves.

We obviously have lots of knowledge, but very little wisdom. Our problem is we have never learned how to properly put to best use the knowledge and achievements we command.

Man is still ignorant of himself. This is true because he is still too ignorant of God; but too proud and too carnal to admit it!

In education today...in man's pursuit of knowledge...he continues to stress the secular at the expense of the spiritual.

For all our advancements, yes, the most advanced civilization known to man - we are still beset by the plagues of the centuries: war, murders and anarchy.

To educate men apart from the Holy Scriptures and knowing Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord only complicates life and further jeopardizes civilization.

Secular education as we know it can help put men on the moon, but it cannot help us get men to Heaven.

Secular education has aided us in coping with our eliminating many of our dread diseases which have plagued us through the centuries.

It has given us, in many ways, an easier and more convenient way of life; but secular education alone cannot give man the right purpose, or set for him the guidelines which he needs for living together peaceably and happily.

At least, it has not done so. We have taken God out of our public system of education.

Prayer and reading God's Word has been banned. At the same time we have opened our schools to almost every conceivable philosophy and ideology of paganism, humanism and hedonism. In many instances permissiveness and immorality have been tolerated, and atheism has been taught with impunity and utter disregard for the sublime truths of the Word of God.

This may well explain the mounting problems we are facing today in America and the world.

It is when men forget God that tyrants forge their chains.

To educate the mind to the neglect of the soul is social suicide.

Jesus said: "It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God" - Matt. 4:4.

Curious about ex-wife

Q. I'm on my second marriage and love my husband very much. But I find myself feeling very left out. Every time my husband gets with his children he tries to find out everything his ex-wife is doing and what she plans on doing.

I feel it's none of his business now that he's married again. I sometimes think he would be happier with her than me and would like to go back and live with her. Should I ask him or should I keep still and let things go as they are?

A. You should have realized when you married your husband that he would see his children and would learn what was happening in the home where they live. This is all very natural and you should not get sensitive and imagine things. Just be normal, loving and happy with your husband.

Bad temper must stop

Q. This thing has been creeping up on me but has now reached a point where I have to concentrate on eliminating it and rising above it. I am impatient, irritable, irascible, sarcastic and I raise my voice.

I need some quick thought that will stop me. This is it. I have to learn to be cool, calm and collected and roll with the punches. I have a wonderful wife, and this temperament of mine is hard on her. Please

Navy, Gulf Coast 'good neighbors' for years

GOOD NEIGHBORS

Since 1942 the Navy and the Mississippi Gulf Coast have been neighbors. First there was Camp Holliday, later an armed guard and bakers' school and then a naval training center.

In 1952 the area in west Gulfport was designated a Naval Construction Battalion Center and became "home" for the Atlantic Fleet Seabees. The single largest employer in the city of Gulfport, the Seabee Center has been a good neighbor financially, contributing many millions of dollars each year to the local economy.

During such disasters as Hurricanes Camille and Frederic, the Center has been a good friend in times of need.

During calmer times the Seabees have contributed their time and talents toward improving the quality of life for their neighbors outside the gate.

The greatest number of beneficiaries of the Seabees' neighborliness has been the youth of the Mississippi Gulf Coast. One of the most recent accomplishments of the Seabees is the Gulfport soccer fields located near the port and site for the state tournament next spring.

Ball diamonds, playgrounds, field houses, Boy Scout and Girl Scout camps are also daily reminders of the unique relationship which exists between the Center and the local communities.

This relationship provides benefits to both the local civilian residents and to the Seabees. Seabees need continuous training to hone their skills for construction projects overseas.

Local communities usually have a need for the talents of these specially trained Navy men. Together, they both grow and profit from the experience.

The "Bees" get training in those areas which will best prepare them for their next overseas assignment and the local community benefits from the use of these skills for local projects.

Upon receipt of requests for civic organizations, Boy

Scouts, Girl Scouts, schools, local governments and the like, a determination is made at the Seabee Center whether the particular project will provide the type training needed by the Seabees.

More often than not, both sides will reach an agreement which is mutually beneficial. Seabees will not provide manual labor such as ditch digging, tree cutting, etc., except when it is part of a disaster relief effort. They cannot provide materials for community projects.

Children have not been the only beneficiaries of the Seabees' efforts. A fire station in Kiln, fishing piers, and boat ramps all along the coast exist today because of the cooperation between the Seabees and their neighbors.

Local Civil Defense organizations, the DelEpee Deaf Center, the Gulfport Al-Anon, the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory and the Gulfport-Biloxi Regional Airport have also asked for, and received, assistance from the Gulfport Seabees.

Over the past several years, the "Bees" have averaged completion of more than 20 community assistance projects each year.

The good neighbor relationship between the Seabees and the Mississippi Gulf Coast has far reaching effects. Victims of natural disasters in Guatemala, Jamaica and the Dominican Republic as well as military personnel from the Indian Ocean to Scotland have benefited from the training the Seabees received while working on projects to help their neighbors "back home" in Mississippi.

There's an Answer!

Reputation ruined

Q. I am a woman in my late 50's. I was fired from a job of 20 years. It was for prejudice reasons and not my work production. I feel my reputation in a small town has been ruined, and it really gets me depressed. I would like to get another job but fear getting fired again. How do I cope with this?

A. Your reputation has, of course, not been ruined. If you hold no bitter feelings and act in a dignified manner, you will have other job offers.

Do not hold this thought of being fired again, but take a new job, give it all you have of loyalty, efficiency and good spirit and you will succeed splendidly. Don't let this experience throw you. Forget it and look only to the future.

We are sending you our booklet, Enthusiasts, which helped others with problems such as yours. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Alcoholic Marriage

Q. I read a letter in your column from a woman who felt something was still lacking in her marriage after her husband joined AA and became sober. I and a lot of other mates have felt this way before joining Al-non family groups.

Both partners in an alcoholic marriage need the help of a growth program. Al-Anon shows us how to meet the responsibility of adjusting to new problems...of our relationship with dignity, grace and love. There are Al-Anon family groups seven nights a week, and a call to the mental health clinic will tell you where to find the closest meeting. Please pass the word along.

A. Thank you for this excellent suggestion. We are indeed glad to pass this word along.

He's the only one

Q. I like this boy a lot but I don't think he feels the same way about me. See, he is going with this girl in my class. She does things behind his back, and then I tell him about it. But all he does about it is break up with her and she tells him she's sorry, and they go back together again. She doesn't like him the same way I do! I know he is the only one for me! I need help desperately.

A. Wonder why you are hung up on this boy? He doesn't appear to be all that smart. Seems as though he falls for anything. Surely there must be a better boy for you somewhere around. Try the technique of "couldn't care less." You have been paying too much attention to this boy and that will never

Make A Merry Mobile

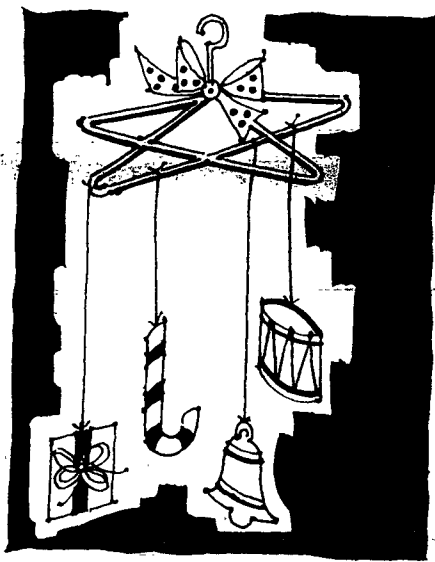

Christmas is a wonderful time for family craft projects, and here's one that the youngsters can happily join in. To create a merry mobile for decorating your home this holiday season, you only need two wire hangers, and some ribbon, plus construction paper and crayons.

cross, as shown in the accompanying illustration.

Have the youngsters draw simple shapes such as bells, candy canes and drums on construction paper, filling in the shapes with crayon, on both sides. (You can also add glitter with glue, if you wish.)

Tape string in various lengths to each decoration, and tie to hangers.

Finish the project with a big bow and hang it high for a merry, mobile reminder of the holiday season!

Dear Santa,
My name is Pandora Mitchell and I have 2 of my own dogs, and their names are Pickles and Jinger.
Pickles is a Dauchard she is brown. Jinger is white and brown, and they would like a dog sweater.
I would like a Polaroid Camera, and a curling Iron, and rinstone maker. Taperecorder cassette. One more thing a poodle dog radio.

Spiritual Neglect

The major emphasis of education today, for the most part, is on mathematics, science and technology, but not on how to live.

We are taught how to make a living. What we need most is to know how to live. Lots of men good plivings but live poor lives.

In recent years we have made fantastic advances in the fields of technology and science. But we have made very little progress in the area of human relations.

Actually, we may have regressed. In man's conquest for material things we have gradually lost sight of God. We cannot see the trees for the forest.

Our vaunted technological achievements have put a man on the moon. But what has that really meant? Has it secured for us any real blessings? I am afraid not!

The truth of the matter is though we have reached the moon we have not learned to live in peace together on earth.

The Word of God leaves with us the simple admonition to "be at peace among yourselves" (1 Thess. 5:13).

As long as men are not at peace among themselves, I am afraid not!

As long as men are not at peace with God, they will not be at peace with themselves, nor with one another.

There's an Answer!

Reputation ruined

Q. I am a woman in my late 50's. I was fired from a job of 20 years. It was for prejudice reasons and not my work production. I feel my reputation in a small town has been ruined, and it really gets me depressed. I would like to get another job but fear getting fired again. How do I cope with this?

A. Your reputation has, of course, not been ruined. If you hold no bitter feelings and act in a dignified manner, you will have other job offers.

Do not hold this thought of being fired again, but take a new job, give it all you have of loyalty, efficiency and good spirit and you will succeed splendidly. Don't let this experience throw you. Forget it and look only to the future.

We are sending you our booklet, Enthusiasms, which helped others with problems such as yours. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Alcoholic Marriage

Q. I read a letter in your column from a woman who felt something was still lacking in her marriage after her husband joined AA and became sober. I and a lot of other mates have felt this way before joining AA family groups.

Both partners in an

We have invented atomic, hydrogen and cobalt bombs.

We have compounded chemicals which can annihilate cities with myriads of people in a matter of hours.

We have the capacity to destroy ourselves.

We obviously have lots of knowledge, but very little wisdom. Our problem is we have never learned how to properly put to best use the knowledge and achievements we command.

Man is still ignorant of himself. This is true because he is still too ignorant of God; but too proud and too carnal to admit it!

In education today...in man's pursuit of knowledge...he continues to stress the secular at the expense of the spiritual.

For all our advancements, yes, the most advanced civilization known to man—we are still beset by the plagues of the centuries: war, murders and anarchy.

To educate men apart from the Holy Scriptures and knowing Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord only complicates life and further jeopardizes civilization.

Secular education as we know it can help put men on the moon, but it cannot help us get men to Heaven.

Secular education has aided us in coping with our eliminating many of our dread

Anon shows us how to meet the responsibility of adjusting to new problems in our relationship with dignity, grace and love. There are Al-

Anon family groups seven nights a week, and a call to the mental health clinic will tell you where to find the closest meeting. Please pass the word along.

A. Thank you for this excellent suggestion. We are indeed glad to pass this word along.

He's the only one

Q. I like this boy a lot but I don't think he feels the same way about me. See, he is going with this girl in my class. She does things behind his back, and then I tell him about it. But all he does about it is break up with her and she tells him she's sorry, and they go back together again. She doesn't like him the same way I do! I know he is the only one for me! I need help desperately.

A. Wonder why you are hung up on this boy? He doesn't appear to be all that smart. Seems as though he falls for anything. Surely there must be a better boy for you somewhere around. Try the technique of "couldn't care less." You have been paying too much attention to this boy and that will never diseases which have plagued us through the centuries.

It has given us, in many ways, an easier and more convenient way of life; but secular education alone cannot give man the right purpose, or set for him the guidelines which he needs for living together peaceably and happily.

At least, it has not done so. We have taken God out of our public system of education.

Prayer and reading God's Word has been banned. At the same time we have opened our schools to almost every conceivable philosophy and ideology of paganism, humanism and hedonism.

In many instances permissiveness and immorality have been tolerated, and atheism has been taught with impunity and utter disregard for the sublime truths of the Word of God.

This may well explain the mounting problems we are facing today in America and the world.

It is when men forget God that tyrants forge their chains.

To educate the mind to the neglect of the soul is social suicide.

Jesus said: "It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God" (Matt. 4:4).

get his interest. Find somebody else. You will miss a lot if you don't.

Curious about ex-wife

Q. I'm on my second marriage and love my husband very much. But I find myself feeling very left out. Every time my husband gets with his children he tries to find out everything his ex-wife is doing and what she plans on doing.

I feel it's none of his business now that he's married again. I sometimes think he would be happier with her than me and would like to go back and live with her.

Should I ask him or should I keep still and let things go as they are?

A. You should have realized when you married your husband that he would see his children and would learn what was happening in the home where they live. This is all very natural and you should not get sensitive and imagine things. Just be normal, loving and happy with your husband

Bad temper must stop

Q. This thing has been creeping up on me but has now reached a point where I have to concentrate on eliminating it and rising above it. I am impatient, irritable, irascible, sarcastic and I raise my voice.

I need some quick thought that will stop me. This is it. I have to learn to be cool, calm and collected and roll with the punches. I have a wonderful wife, and this temperament of mine is hard on her. Please

Navy, Gulf Coast 'good neighbors' for years

GOOD NEIGHBORS

Since 1942 the Navy and the Mississippi Gulf Coast have been neighbors. First there was Camp Holliday, later an armed guard and bakers' school and then a naval training center.

In 1952 the area in west Gulfport was designated a Naval Construction Battalion Center and became "home" for the Atlantic Fleet Seabees.

The single largest employer in the city of Gulfport, the Seabee Center has been a good neighbor financially, contributing many millions of dollars each year to the local economy.

During such disasters as Hurricanes Camille and Frederic, the Center has been a good friend in times of need.

During calmer times the Seabees have contributed their time and talents toward improving the quality of life for their neighbors outside the gate.

The greatest number of beneficiaries of the Seabees' neighborliness has been the youth of the Mississippi Gulf Coast. One of the most recent accomplishments of the Seabees is the Gulfport soccer fields located near the port and site for the state tournament next spring.

Ball diamonds, playgrounds, field houses, Boy Scout and Girl Scout camps are also daily reminders of the unique relationship which exists between the Center and the local communities.

This relationship provides benefits to both the local civilian residents and to the Seabees. Seabees need continuous training to hone their skills for construction projects overseas.

Local communities usually have a need for the talents of these specially trained Navy men. Together, they both grow and profit from the experience.

The "Bees" get training in those areas which will best prepare them for their next overseas assignment and the local community benefits from the use of these skills for local projects.

Upon receipt of requests for civic organizations, Boy

Scouts, Girl Scouts, schools, local governments and the like, a determination is made at the Seabee Center whether the particular project will provide the type training needed by the Seabees.

More often than not, both sides will reach an agreement which is mutually beneficial. Seabees will not provide manual labor such as ditch digging, tree cutting, etc., except when it is part of a disaster relief effort. They cannot provide materials for community projects.

Children have not been the only beneficiaries of the Seabees' efforts. A fire station in Kiln, fishing piers, and boat ramps all along the coast exist today because of the cooperation between the Seabees and their neighbors.

Local Civil Defense organizations, the Delepee Deaf Center, the Gulfport Al-Anon, the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory and the Gulfport-Biloxi Regional Airport have also asked for, and received, assistance from the Gulfport Seabees.

Over the past several years, the "Bees" have averaged completion of more than 20 community assistance projects each year.

The good neighbor relationship between the Seabees and the Mississippi Gulf Coast has far reaching effects. Victims of natural disasters in Guatemala, Jamaica and the Dominican Republic as well as military personnel from the Indian Ocean to Scotland have benefited from the training the Seabees received while working on projects to help their neighbors "back home" in Mississippi.

Bay High '70 class plans 10th reunion

Members of the 1970 Bay High graduating class are seeking current addresses on fellow classmates in connection with the planning of a tenth anniversary reunion of the class.

A reunion planning committee composed of seven members of the class met Tuesday at the Wendy McDonald Rupp residence.

The committee is urging 1970 graduates or their relatives to send up-to-date addresses to Chuck Benvenutti, 163 Felicity St., Bay St. Louis, 39520, so that information on the reunion plans may be disseminated to as many class members as possible.

With the reunion tentatively planned for May, 1980, the committee will meet again Tuesday, Jan. 8, at 7:30 p.m. at the Benvenutti's Felicity Street home.

Further arrangements such as band, location, catering will be discussed, Benvenutti said.

The organization committee includes Alfrazier Acker, Mike Burke, Benvenutti, Beth Hunter Benvenutti, Nathaniel Fairconnetue, Charles Johnson and Mrs. Rupp.

Mrs. Santa visits Legion Auxiliary

"Mrs. Santa came visiting Tuesday night." Ladies of the American Legion Unit 77 of Waveland were entertained recently with a Christmas buffet hosted by the Unit's executive committee.

Following games and entertainment highlight of the evening was a visit from Mrs. Santa who had a gift for each lady.

New members were introduced as were Mrs. Lola Summral, department president, and Mrs. Marie Cassidy of Unit 119, Gulfport.

Mrs. Marion Kennair, president of Unit 77, thanked all the members "who worked so hard to make 1979 such a success."

The ladies will close the year's activities with a cookie bake and the distribution of Christmas cookies.

The Unit extended its Christmas and New Year's greeting to all.

Sew & Sew to party Thursday

The Sew and Sew Club held its monthly meeting November 29 in the home of Mrs. Alice L. Barre, newly elected president.

Plans were discussed for the annual Christmas party to be held at 12:30 p.m. Dec. 13 in the home of Mrs. Dottie Gates in Waveland.

Handcrafted Christmas gifts will be given to residents of the County home, the Club's annual project.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be Jan. 10, 1980.

LATE MOTHERHOOD - Motherhood after age 35 is not as dangerous as it was once thought to be. The March of Dimes says that many medical advances can now help insure a healthy outcome to the pregnancies of more mature women.

Twain Special

"Mark Twain: Beneath the Laughter," a one-hour special dramatizing the dark side of the beloved American writer's character not generally known by the public, can be seen at 9 p.m., Monday, December 10, on the Mississippi ETV Network. The film features dramatic recreations of incidents from the life and work of Mark Twain to explain the origin of his increasingly pessimistic view of human nature. Actor Dan O'Herlihy stars in the role. The film begins in 1908. It's the Christmas season, and Twain, an old man, returns from Bermuda to his home in Redding, Conn., to spend the holidays with his daughter Jean. But on the morning of Christmas Eve, Jean suffers a fatal heart attack while taking a bath. Twain retreats into the privacy of his study and there broods on his life and work. He recalls a montage of real and fictional events that help explain his feeling that Jean "has been enriched with the most precious of all gifts—that gift which makes all other gifts mean and poor—death."

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Burr of Bay St. Louis announce the birth of their second child and second son, Jeremy Wayne, Dec. 4 at Hancock General Hospital. He weighed six pounds, two ounces.

Mrs. Burr is the former Noel Mire, daughter of Mrs. Gladys Tillman, Bay St. Louis. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Timmy Burr of Clermont Harbor. Mrs. Minnie Myer of Ponchatoula, La. is the maternal great-grandmother.

COSTUME PROJECT

Ole Miss home economics faculty members are reproducing the 1960 casual dress of Mrs. J. P. Coleman in a project designed to illustrate fashion history in Mississippi through reproduction of authentic copies of clothes worn by several of the state's First Ladies. Seventeen garments, mostly of 100 percent cotton, are being produced by different groups as a salute to a product historically identified with Mississippi.

Make Entertaining Easy

Why not give a holiday gift to make entertaining easy for folks on your shopping list? Here are some suggestions from Wear-Ever for Christmas gifts that make throwing a party as much fun as going to one.

POP POPCORN. Everyone loves to munch on popcorn at a party. The Popcorn Pumper pops batch after batch continuously so the host or hostess never has to leave the room for more. Since it pops corn with hot air instead of hot oil, the Pumper is easy to clean too. (Suggested retail price: $44.95)

"SHOOT" APPETIZERS AND DESSERTS. An innovative appliance like the Super Shooter electric foodgun is the party giver's dream. Use it to cater your own affair with picture perfect cookies, canapés, mints and desserts. All you do is shoot the ingredients out of the foodgun's barrel for professional-looking results in minutes. (Suggested retail price: $29.95)

COOK CREPES. Give an 8-inch SilverStone fry pan from Wear-Ever and inspire a crepe-making party. Its non-stick surface takes the secret out of crepe making so you can easily prepare delicious, paper thin crepes that won't stick to the pan. (Suggested retail price: $8.99)

Mental Health Center serves Hancock through Bay branch

The Bay St. Louis office of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center provides services to residents of Hancock County five days a week.

The Center offers help to adults, adolescents, children, and families with a wide range of life problems.

Parenting classes, drug education, and divorce counseling are also offered through the Center.

All sessions are confidential and are based on a person's ability to pay.

When a prospective client contacts the Center, he is first given an appointment for an intake interview.

In this session, he meets with an intake worker who helps him decide if counseling will be useful for his situation and acquaints him with the services provided at the Center.

A financial evaluation is also conducted at this time.

Intake interviews are held at the Bay office and the Gulfport office. If the prospective client and his intake counselor decide that counseling is advised, the client will be referred to a trained therapist.

Therapy appointments are than arranged by the client and his therapist.

"If you or a member of your family think that you could benefit from counseling, call the admissions worker at the Gulfport office (1-863-1132 toll-free) to set up an intake appointment at the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, "a center spokesman urges.

HYPOTHYROIDISM

Fortunately for many babies, mental retardation caused by congenital hypothyroidism can be prevented. The New England Regional Congenital Hypothyroidism Detection Program, which receives funding from the March of Dimes, detects and coordinates the treatment of infants with this birth defect.

Law of cause and effect supersedes luck

I heard a man say the other day of one of his neighbors. "He is the luckiest person I ever saw." The question naturally arises, why was he saying this about this particular man?

This neighbor had just sold $2,700 worth of pine timber off his farm. While others were letting the fires rage and paying no attention to reforesting their land, this man protected his growing timber and set out pine trees where he did not have a good stand. So, he was lucky.

I believe with Bulwer that there is no such thing as luck. Luck is a fancy name for being always at our duty, and thus sure to be ready when the right time comes around.

Do not count on luck, and the probability is that you will be so prepared and so successful that all will call you lucky.

Addison said, "I never knew an early-rising, hard-working, prudent man, careful how he spent his money and strictly honest, who complained of bad luck.

A good character, good habits, and iron industry are impregnable to the assaults of all the ill-luck that fools ever dreamed of."

You can be lucky too, if you will do the things that will make you much better off in the years ahead.

If you will plant your idle land in trees, even if you have only a small tract, you will be lucky a few years from now.

If you study some trade or profession and become qualified in the line you have studied, you are lucky, according to some people, when you get a good paying job.

The only way to be really lucky is to study hard or work hard to attain your objectives.

Luck is always waiting for something to turn up. Work, with keen eyes and strong will, turns up something.

Luck lies in bed and wishes that the mail will bring news of striking it rich. Work turns out at 6 o'clock or earlier, and with busy industry lays out the foundation of a good business. Luck whines and cries.

Work whistles and builds.

Luck relies on chance; labor, on character.

I have seen clever men, exceptionally clever men, who had not a penny to their names and almost with no shoes on their feet. Some of them give advice that sounds well, but if they cannot do anything worthwhile themselves, how can they do good for me?

Just recently I talked to a man who is unusually well informed and intelligent. He told me a dozen things wrong with his community and was very emphatic in his statements about what ought to be done.

But I would be afraid to consider his advice on anything as he had been a failure in his own personal affairs.

Following his advice might lead to his condition. That's like getting a bald headed barber to treat you for falling hair.

Shallow men believe in luck - believe in circumstances. Strong men believe in cause and effect.

Look carefully into any matter and you will see there is no such thing as luck, but there is a cause for everything.

Luck will never make a man an engineer, but hard work will.

No man was ever so lucky as to be a good doctor without lots of hard work and study. No man could be so lucky as to wake up some fine morning and find himself a competent lawyer without having studied law.

And it is as unreasonable to expect luck to get you anywhere in any other line or endeavor.

And no one can be so lucky as to sit on his front porch in the shade and have a fine farm or a rich tract of timber. There is a cause for every condition that we face.

By planning ahead and doing the things that will produce greater income, we can have that greater income, but we can never have it by just waiting and trusting in luck.

Luck is the excuse that many use to cover up their laziness and failures. We largely make our own luck.

We hear things like these said of men: "He is like a cork; nothing will sink him," or, "Throw him into the river and he will rise with a fish in his mouth."

And this old saying, "Like a cat, he always falls on his feet."

The men who are lucky, as expressed in these old sayings, are the men who have prepared for life, and when something comes up they are not caught unawares.

The man who makes his place produce to its full capacity has something to fall back on in case something happens. If he has pecan trees, pine trees, hardwood trees, fruit trees, improved pastures and livestock, he is much more likely to be "lucky," as some would say, than the man who has neglected his land and is making it produce little or nothing. I have noticed that the man who is unlucky is the man who uses "can't" and "couldn't" a lot.

Edgar Guest wrote the poem, "CAN'T," which reads: "Can't is the worst word that's written or spoken; Doing more harm here than slander or lies; On it is many a strong spirit broken. And with it many a good purpose dies. It springs from the lips of the thoughtless each morning And robs us of courage we need through the day. It rings in our ears like a time-sent warning And laughs when we falter and fall by the way. Can't is the father of feeble endeavor;

The parent of terror and half-hearted work; It weakens the efforts of artisans clever, And makes of the toiler an indolent shirk.

It poisons the soul of the man with a vision, It stifles in infancy many a plan; It greets honest toiling with open derision And mocks at the hopes and dreams of a man.

Can't is a word none should speak without blushing; To utter it should be a symbol of shame; Ambition and courage, it daily is crushing; It blights a man's purpose and shortens his aim. Despite it with all your hatred of error; Refuse it lodgment it seeks in your brain; Arm against it as a creature of terror, And all that you dream of some day you shall gain.

Can't is the word that is foe to ambition, An enemy ambushed to shatter your will; Its prey is forever the man with a mission And bows out to courage and patience and skill. Hate it with hatred that's deep and undying, For once it is welcomed 'twill break any man; Whatever the goal you are seeking, keep trying And answer this demon by saying, "I CAN."

Goldsmith said, "Good fortune is always seen accompanying industry. We make our own fortune, whether good or bad. You can be lucky, or have good fortune if you do things in the right way."

Yes, you can be lucky if you are willing to pay the price,

Insurance commissioner calls for uniform claim adjustments

Commissioner of Insurance George Dale is appalled that an insurance policy was interpreted so many different ways in the payment of claims from Hurricane Frederic, and is making recommendations to prevent these future problems.

NSTL, Navajo Indians in satellite project

The Navajo Division of Resources successfully demonstrated its automated resource inventory system recently to some 25 Navajo Tribal officials at the Navajo Community College in Tsaile, Ariz.

In October 1977, the Navajo Tribe entered a joint project with NASA to develop an automated resource inventory system that utilized information derived from data acquired by the Landsat satellites.

The system was designed to be responsive to Navajo resource management requirements. The system was developed and is being tested through a project being implemented by the Navajo and the National Space Technology Laboratories' Earth Resources Laboratory. The joint project included the training of Navajo resource personnel in computer and remote sensing technology such that the Navajo would acquire the capability to operate their own computerized geographic information system for all Navajo lands located in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah.

Using Reservation Grazing District 18 which encompasses some 600,000 acres of the total 16 million acres of Navajo lands as a training area, Navajo personnel participated in 50 man-months of classroom and on-the-job training at the NSTL Earth Resources Laboratory over the past two years.

The results of the joint two year effort were demonstrated at Tsaile. Tanya Gorman, Natural Resources Specialist with the Division of Resources, illustrated the utility of the computerized system by displaying information in the data base for District 18 on the systems TV monitor.

The data base included information on soils, topography, rainfall and vegetative cover. The vegetative cover was derived from Landsat multispectral scanner data, she explained, which could be stored separately and brought together with soils, topography, rainfall and response to specific management analysis such as locating areas where there is have a right to be upset when their neighbor has the same type of policy and gets his claim paid."

"The purpose of the hearing was to determine what should be covered under the new homeowners policy which is now being studied by the Commission," Dale stated. "The biggest problem I notice in the hearing was interpreting the policy provisions," he said. "The new homeowners policy will correct this situation with the easy to read format."

Testimony by local residents revealed the citizens were highly upset, and interpretation of some adjusters, agents and companies were inconsistent in determining what claims were to be paid, according to Dale.

"If a swimming pool is in the ground and covered under the policy, why should a swimming pool out of the ground be excluded?" Dale asked. "He noted further confusion in paying claims on damaged lawn mowers, tillers and other service machines."

"If your lawn mower was in a storage room connected to your house, your policy would cover the damage. If it is in a storage area not connected to the house, it would not be covered under most policies according to companies," Dale said.

The Commissioner stated that a number of agents and companies had gone to great efforts to pay claims as fast as possible and even pay questionable items not specified under the policy.

He said, "Companies have paid more in this catastrophe than ever in the history of this state."

"Many long hours were spent by agents and adjusters under severe conditions, and the public should be aware of the hard work done in their behalf," he added.

Dale noted that many people who had a comprehensive dwelling policy testified that their insurance was changed to a homeowners policy without their knowledge.

"Under the old policy, several items would have been covered if it had not been changed," he stated.

Dale said as a result of the hearing, he would make the following recommendations:

- Recommend that people be able to secure coverage in desired amounts on specific items not already provided in the homeowners policy;

- Recommend meeting with companies after the adoption of the new policy to have a proper understanding of all coverage provided under the policy. This would eliminate inconsistency in the payment of claims;

- Recommend to the Mississippi Legislature to consider licensing adjusters; and

- Recommend to the mortgage company holding the loan on properties to explore new procedures in expediting the release of loss drafts to the insureds.

In conclusion, he said, "Persons should understand that with additional coverage on your home and contents, there is going to be higher premium."

Egg Marketing Board reveals quiche secrets

QUICHE NOEL TO RING IN THE HOLIDAYS

There's something about a quiche that convinces guests you've spent untold hours in the kitchen. Actually, it's a very quick and easy menu item. But, let that be your secret while you reap the compliments.

A quiche is simply an egg-rich custard pie to which you can add almost any tasty mixture of ingredients you happen to have on hand, according to the Mississippi Egg Marketing Board.

Use seafood, vegetables, meat, chicken, cheese, what have you. Once you get in quiche-making you'll think up all sorts of delectable combinations.

In a quiche, even leftovers (like holiday ham or turkey) can go to a party in a new guise and with no apologies.

Quiche Noel features a popular duo, chicken and Cheddar cheese. Bright green peppers and rosy pimiento lend a special holiday air. To speed up preparation time, take advantage of frozen pie shells-deep dish ones work best. Bake the shells ahead of time and you'll be all set to whisk up the filling and pop them into the oven.

Each quiche provides six main dish servings. Cut smaller slices to serve as an appetizer.

Festive-looking, great tasting Quiche Noel can be the hit of your holiday season.

QUICHE NOEL

Six servings

1 (9-inch) pie shell, unbaked 6 eggs, beaten 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese

¾ cups chopped cooked chicken or turkey OR 1 can (5 oz.) boned chicken

¾ cup chopped green pepper 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

1 cup half and half or light cream 1 tablespoon instant minced onion

½ teaspoon seasoned salt Brush pie shell with small amount of the beaten eggs. Prick bottom and sides with fork. If using metal pie pan, bake shell in preheated 450 degree F. oven until golden brown, about 5 minutes. If using pie plate, bake shell at 425 degree F. Cool on wire rack. Reduce oven temperature to 375 degree F. for metal pan or 350 degree F. for pie plate.

Sprinkle cheese, chicken, green pepper and pimiento in pie shell. Beat remaining ingredients together until well blended. Pour into pie shell. Bake in preheated oven until knife inserted halfway between center and outside edge comes out clean, 35 to 40 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

Microwave: Cook pricked pie shell in microwaveable pie dish 4 to 5 minutes on High. Fill as directed. Cook on High 5 minutes. Cook on reduced power (30 percent to 50 percent) 10 to 12 minutes, rotating 3 or 4 times. Let stand 10 minutes.
